What we do

By connecting your system to Fortytwo, we will route and deliver your messages to your audience anywhere in the world through our advanced messaging solutions, allowing your systems to seamlessly communicate with your customers.

We facilitate automated communication across most major industries including finance, retail, hospitality, e-commerce, gaming, marketing, health, logistics and many more.

Who we are

Born in Sweden but headquartered in Malta, Fortytwo is backed by a multicultural team of messaging professionals, a robust technical team and 24/7 support agents. We're proud to be GSMA certified, accredited by the Swedish Post and Telecom Authority and part of the FORTYTWO Group.

With solutions that focus on reliability and seamless integration, we partner with brands and enterprises in order to provide quality messaging solutions. Since our inception in 2001, our specialised team has developed a suite of messaging solutions that predominantly transmit A2P SMS traffic at the best possible value.

Our main solutions

Advanced Messaging Platform (AMP)

Send and deliver your messages globally through AMP.

Number Validation Services (NVS)

Clean up your customer databases with NVS.

Machine to Machine (M2M)

Establish communication between any device or object with M2M.

Why choose Fortytwo as your messaging partner?

We're innovative

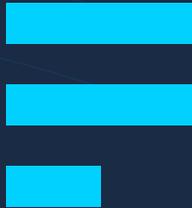

We strive to be at the forefront of messaging technology and to be the best at what we do. Our innovative approach, combined with our keen interest in listening to your communication requirements, help us develop the next big thing in the messaging sphere.

We have over a decade of experience

Since 2001, our main focus has been to provide messaging solutions that bridge the gap between our clients and their audiences. We take pride in developing quality, innovative solutions and delivering excellent 24/7 customer support.

We deliver your messages globally

Reaching your target audience is crucial. Partnering with Fortytwo ensures that your messages will be delivered to any destination you may require at competitive rates.
